Firm Philosophy & Objectives

BCDM Architects develops physical facilities for organizations which are in the business of forming people, primarily educational and religious formation. Our primary clientele are educators and religious institutions. Formed in 1976, BCDM is now a regional K-12 and higher education design firm, and a national design firm for church bodies, including 17 different Catholic dioceses in the U.S. Our most recent design commission is in the Diocese of Dallas. Among other projects, BCDM is noted for the design of the Holy Family Shrine near Gretna (NE).

BCDM employees and clients are driven to develop facilities which help others grow in their formation as people. Thus, our people are fortunate to pursue their passions through our work and contribute to the greater good.

We employ two of the three people in our state who are Certified/Recognized Educational Facilities Planners (CEFP/REFP), bringing national design qualifications to our clients. Also, our partners' experience designing, owning and operating facilities coupled with our staff experience in construction management allow BCDM to deliver more value across the design/build/own/operate spectrum.

More than 80% of our employees are shareholders in the firm.
